

Golan Heights and Shebba Farms

This map illustrates the Golan Heights and Shebba Farms region. The Golan Heights is shown in green, with numerous Israeli settlements marked by brown triangles. The Shebba Farms, located in the north, are highlighted in orange and designated as Lebanese territory. A pink hatched area represents the Demilitarized Zone established after the 1967 Six-Day War. A green hatched area indicates the Demilitarized Zone from the 1947/48 war. The map also shows Lake Hula, which has been drained since 1958, and Lake Tiberias. Surrounding countries include Lebanon to the west, Syria to the north and east, and Jordan to the south. Major Israeli cities like Haifa, Tel Aviv, and Jerusalem are not shown, but smaller towns and villages are labeled. A scale bar at the bottom right indicates distances up to 10 km. A legend at the bottom right explains the symbols used for settlements, demilitarized zones, and the Shebba Farms. A note in the bottom right corner states: 'The Shebba Farms were occupied by Israel in 1967 as the Syrian part of the Golan Heights. They are currently claimed by the latter country as part of Lebanon. See also territorial disputes between Lebanon and Israel on the relevant land pages.'
